Studio operations in Georgia have been authorised to increase the capacity

The studio operations at Evolution Gaming's Tbilisi site have been granted permission by the authorities to increase the capacity, as long as compliant with current restrictions. Evolution Gaming will initially re-open approximately 100 tables.

Evolution Gaming is scaling up the operations to a limited extent as the safety and well-being of its employees continue to be the first priority. The operations will continue to adhere to the current guidelines regarding social distancing and continue with the already implemented infection prevention measures in the studio. Evolution monitors the development of covid-19 closely and will expand the operations cautiously with maintained security for the employees.

The studio operations in Tbilisi were temporarily closed following instruction by the Georgian authorities on 23 March and were reopened with limited capacity on 4 April.
